Identity

1

Our brand signature is how the world recognizes and identifies us. It should appear on all communications.

© 2022 Sesami Cash Management Corporation. All Rights Reserved.

Our brand signature is carefully composed and should not be modified.

The Sesami brand signature represents the brandmark and wordmark within one integrated logo. It is carefully composed to possess a strong technical precision and optical harmony that is both legible and easily identifiable.

Ensure at least the minimum amount of clear space.

By securing a certain amount of “breathing room” around the brand signature, more attention is drawn to it. As the brand signature may be sized according to specific usage, spacing dimensions are determined by the size of the brand signature on a specific piece. A clear space of one unit, which is equal to the width (two squares) of the brandmark has been established.

No copy or graphic elements should interrupt this space.

Note that this is a minumum requirement, and more clear space is often welcome.

Use the variation that's appropriate for the job.

Use the two-color positive signature when placed against a white or light-colored background and the two-color reversed mark when placed against a black or dark-colored background.

One-Color Variations

Black and white variations of the signatures can be used in secondary applications where the two-color doesn't work or when necessitated by printing limitations.

Do not alter the brand identity in any way.

Improper usage will dilute visual consistency and invite confusion. Artwork for the Sesami brand identity has been carefully designed and should not be altered. Only use approved artwork.

Typography

2

Always use our primary typeface, Neue Haas Unica.

The Neue Haas Unica font family should be used whenever possible in branded communications, collateral, web and social media. It comes in a variety of weights but Light, Regular and Bold will be most often used. Type is primarily black or white, with color used sparingly to highlight words within a headline.

About Neue Haas Unica

Neue Haas Unica is a neo-grotesque sans-serif designed to be the ultimate sans-serif, a hybrid of Univers and Helvetica (“Unica”). Compared to Helvetica, Neue Haas Unica has slightly looser spacing and letterforms that are a touch narrower.
A carefully crafted font family that is clean, understated and elegant, it was digitally remastered in 2015 with a full set of weights, an extended range of glyphs and multi-language support.

A system font should be used when the brand font is not available.

Use the Arial font family if the brand font is not available—e.g., email signature and certain Word templates that are used and shared externally.

The right combination of size and weight ensures a pleasing hierachy.

The example to the right shows a typical typographic hierarchical structure. In this instance, the eyebrow may be a category indicator, followed by a headline and subhead that describes the content below.

Below the first paragraph are examples of both longform (hyperlink text) and shortform (button) call-to-actions. The longform style may also be used for a subhead or brief subline.

For leading or line spacing, most headlines are 1.25:1 ratio (leading:point size). Paragraph leading will be variable based on column width/ characters per line.

Color

3

The color palette is bold, vibrant and digital-first.

The primary palette consists of a curated set of three vibrant, contemporary colors (Aqua, Purple and Yellow) and a range of neutrals that convey a sense of modern acuity and sophistication.

For consistency and convenience, Adobe Swatch Exchange (.ase) files have been created for use across Adobe's suite of Creative Cloud applications. Please contact a member of the brand team listed at the end of this document.

Iconography

Iconographic illustrations serve medium-scale needs.

Our collection of proprietary icon illustrations is built on the principles of boldness and clarity. The abstract nature communicates sophistication while feeling timeless and universally emblematic. The line style, weight and simplicity of the compositions live harmoniously alongside our logo and typeface.

They are built on an established grid to ensure uniformity and precision at harmonious degrees of scale. These icon illustrations are meant to be displayed at medium scale.
